THE WORK OF A REAL SCHOOL

Good Teachers Are as Essential as Buildings.

INTEREST THE COMMUNITY.

The Wonderful Work of Pupils and Instructors at the Thorn Hill School. Children Take a Real Interest in Their Studies.

Perched upon a hill which overlooks a number of houses that appear to be playing leapfrog in their endeavor to get into the valley is Thorn Hill school. In these homes there are no rich people, and many of the girls and mothers are forced to go into the hollering works to help swell the Saturday pay roll. Naturally one would not expect a splendid building in such a community nor well kept grounds nor a strong school spirit. But all of these things seem to be in the forming at present.

The exterior of the school is rather shabby. Some palls are missing from the fence, there is no walk, and the doors are scarred. Inside the desks and furniture are mostly old, but there are decorations, and they are child made throughout. The whole curtains that temper the sunlight are plain, but have been neatly stenciled in bright, pleasing colors. The big ugly doorway between the two rooms is fringed with a unique, sparkling, which would puzzle the ordinary mortal as to its manufacture. The secret of the large and many colored beads, that are strung on heavy cords, is that they are made from wall paper. The children had got huge blocks of samples of wall paper, cut the paper into strips and rolled them into beads.

A line of nails in the door frame showed a brave display of baskets of all shapes and sizes. There was no effort at any slavish pattern, for each child had made a basket the size and shape he or she wished. That the work has proved fascinating is shown by the fact that half of recess time is usually voluntarily given to this work. As the boys have become adept in the use of willow they have been urged to make small stools at home and bring them to school to be topped with strong and beautiful baskets. The teachers have realized the full value of this work, for they are arranging for the older boys to cut and prepare the basket willows from the plants along the streams in the neighborhood. This will allow the child to take the raw material as it occurs in nature and make it into the finished product with the added value that artistic handwork gives.

Gradually this same activity upon the part of the children and their teachers has caught and held the interest of the community. In a comparatively short time the parents have seen that the children would be helped by more bluer work and a better perception of form and color. As there was no money beyond the bare conduct of the school the teachers and the parents gave a social and box party. The proceeds of the entertainment have been used to engage the services of an art teacher, who comes out from Frankfort twice a week.

A school garden is being planned for the coming spring, but for fear they may be disappointed at the last moment the children have arranged to cultivate small plots at home. These are to be entered in the contest, which is carried on under the auspices of the Franklin County Fair association. HOW MUCH MORE COULD BE DONE IF THEY HAD A BUILDING WHICH WAS HANDSOME ENOUGH TO GAIN THEIR RESPECT? no one can tell, but they have taken what was at hand and with a little spirit gone to work to make it as efficient as possible and as close to the activities of the community as possible, and they have succeeded. Under such conditions the building will follow before long. In the meantime the teachers and the parents have the consolation of knowing that, although a school is much better for having a fine, comfortable building, it is a possibility without it.

S. M. R. HURT

Announces For County Attorney

In this issue of the COURIER we announce the candidacy of S. M. R. Hurt, of West Liberty, for the democratic nomination for County Attorney of Morgan county. Mr. Hurt was educated at Vanderbilt University, and is a man of more than ordinary attainments in scholarship and learning. A profound thinker and ripe scholar he brings into the practice of his profession the rare gifts of erudition and application. He is conscientious to a fault and the soul of honor and would be faithful to any trust reposed in him. Absolutely devoid of fear and having none of the politician, in the latter-day meaning of the term, he would in the discharge of a public duty "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may."

The county attorney's office is a very important one, the most important in our belief of the county offices, and the man to discharge the duties of that office in a way to fully protect the rights of the taxpayers must needs be a man of deep thought, a thorough understanding of the law, and above all upright and honorable, and with the lenient courage to do right regardless of factions, cliques and grafters. We believe that Mr. Hurt has all of these attributes, and should the voters of Morgan county honor him by the nomination we feel that he will reflect credit upon the position.

We ask for him your consideration in the coming primary.

Democratic Committeemen Elected.

At the meetings of the democratic voters of Morgan county, held in the various precincts Saturday, the following committeemen were elected:

West Liberty, No. 1, H. G. Perry; West Liberty No. 2, W. T. Phillips; Ezel No. 3, Luther Pieratt; Tom's Branch No. 4, B. P. Kash; Chapel No. 5, Rolla Cecil; Salem No. 6, B. L. Grevdon; Caney No. 7, D. G. Lacy; River No. 8, A. J. Hammons; Paint No. 9, R. H. Ison; Elk Fork No. 10, R. S. Smith; Painter's Branch No. 11, Milford Whit; North Fork No. 12, J. R. Gullett; Cannel City No. 13, J. D. Whiteaker; Coffee Creek No. 14, Willie Williams; Adele No. 15, A. J. Lindon; Lacy Creek No. 16, Ben Kennard; Flat Woods No. 17, Joe Osborne.

With few exceptions the elections were unanimous, there being races in only one or two precincts.

C. W. WOMACK

CHAIRMAN MORGAN COUNTY DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

The committee met in West Liberty Monday for the purpose of perfecting an organization and re-elected C. W. Womack Chairman and C. D. Arnett Secretary. The election of a chairman and Secretary was by unanimous consent. Mr. Womack and Mr. Arnett's names being the only ones put before the meeting. They had each held their respective offices for several years, rendering satisfactory and efficient party service.

Perfect harmony prevailed at the meeting and the committee begins the years work under most auspicious circumstances.

The democratic party in Morgan county is thoroughly united. There are no divisions nor dissensions in its ranks, and the party has reason to expect splendid service from each member from the Chairman down, and each and every candidate for office, either elective or appointive, will get a square deal at their hands.

CHAS. D. ARNETT.

Endorsed By Committees.

The candidacy of Chas. D. Arnett for the nomination for Senator from the 34th district was unanimously endorsed by the democratic committee at its meeting held here Monday. We are informed that the democratic committee of Magoffin county also endorsed Mr. Arnett's candidacy. This is quite a boost for Charley and will have the effect of making any one else who might be thinking of entering the race sit up and take notice. It is our honest opinion that no opposition will develop and that he will be given a clear track in the August primary.

School Notes.

TWO HUNDRED-SIXTY-TWO pupils now in school and more coming each week to swell the number. Our aim is THREE HUNDRED, and we must reach that number. We now have one of the best working schools in this end of the state, and we must continue to impress upon the minds of the young men and women of this mountain section that here is their opportunity. The normal department is so pushed with work that it must begin the day's work ahead of time by reciting one lesson before the remainder of the school has reached the school-house. We have the two departments—County and State Certificate Courses—both as well represented as we expected and yet we have new recruits to both each week. It looks now that our fondest expectations will be more than realized in these two departments.

The young men and women—most of them—seem to know why they are here and what they are doing, and as a result they are making each minute tell. There is a certificate at the other end of the school term waiting only those who keep it ever in mind, and work with all their might toward that end. But we note a tendency on the part of some very few to forget the goal in sight, and to incline their attention toward "a sparkling companion more than toward their studies. To such we can only say: Cut it out or go home. We can not afford to convert the West Liberty High school into a matrimonial bureau. We POSITIVELY can not allow any young lady to receive the company of young men at her boarding-house, and we have asked all who keep boarders for the school to not allow young men to call on the girls who board with them. If any patron of the school thinks us wrong in this contention please write us that you want your girls to be permitted to receive company while here in school and we explain the fact to the school and afterward not include your daughter in the "no callers" restricted. We expect all the boarding-houses who keep students to adhere to this rule strictly or we will be under the necessity of changing the boarder or sending her home, for we promised the parents faithfully while in the field during the holidays, soliciting students for the school, that we would see that this regulation would be carried out. They sent us their daughters with the understanding that they would not be allowed to receive company at their boarding-houses, and we must be true to that trust or never ask for the confidence of any one hereafter.

We hope this is an innovation that will cease to live as soon as the young ladies see the reasonableness of our contention. But if it continues to worry us we can only do as we promised the parents and that is SEND THE YOUNG LADIES HOME that persists in "receiving."

The Normal Department has organized a Literary Society, with officers elected from among their own members and we expect much good to result to young people from their work in this direction. Its object is to train its members in speaking to audiences, and to acquaint them more with good literature.

Their first open session will be held in the college chapel Friday night, Jan. 31, and all the friends of the school both in town and in the country are cordially invited to come and enjoy a pleasant evening free of any charge whatever.

Hoping that the readers of the COURIER will be glad to receive this little message from the Normal Department, we wish to be remembered as the friend of the boys and girls of the Mountains. CISCO.

Liquor and Christmas.

The following from the Big Sandy Monitor is a little late, but it is true enough for any time of the year.

Temperate? Yes, like thunder! Over three hundred gallons of liquor have been put off at the Prestonsburg depot! A pretty record! A blot on the history of Floyd county! Men who have the appearance of Christians have been seen totting their jug away from the express office. Many a mother has had to gaze upon the distorted face of her son thru this Christmas. Her heart has been saddened by this fact in no small degree. She knows that she went down into the very jaws of death to give this son the life that he is so using to destroy hers. It is a shame and a disgrace that we have young men who are worse than hogs. A hog won't get drunk, and some boys will.

We have local option territory and yet one station along the C. & O. railroad has brought 300 gallons of the broth of hell to Floyd county's citizens that they might, in keeping with a desecrated ideal, celebrate the birth of their Savior. Wonder what the mob of about three hundred who met at the depot would have thought if Gabriel should have gotten off the train and sounded the march for the judgement bar? (Some of 'em would have tried to persuade him to wait till Bradley got the jug.) What are we coming to, anyway? Are we all going to the devil, or are some of us just finding out that we have been headed that way all the time? You may ask the cause of this promiscuous and usually common drinking. You need not. It is prophecy being fulfilled: "If we sow the wind, we shall reap the whirlwind." Nothing truer was ever put in print.

Just look back and around you. Many of the teachers who give instruction to your children get drunk as loons and you know it. His teacher before him was a toper; you knew that. Some of the said to be preachers to whom your boy listens on Sunday are men who take their dram to the "funny" stage; you are aware of that. Do you expect anything else from your boy but for him to follow in the footsteps of his leaders?

Every tragedy, whether it be the destruction of a character or a life, can trace its inception back to intemperance in some form, and that of drink is the Moloch to which the world is yearly sacrificing its millions. Parents, it's high time we were arousing ourselves against this evil! We must demand redress through our Interstate Commerce Law. We have the saloon keepers from among us. The "moonshine still" is a thing of the past. The "bootlegger" can't peddle long till he is kidnapped. The only liquor dealers we have left on our hands now are the saloon keepers of other states and the C. & O. railroad. These are made legal by the Interstate Commerce Law.

We want to repeat what we said last week, that officers and leaders who drink are sowing to the wind and will reap the whirlwind; but did you know your boy would be in the whirlwind? We must get sober officers, teachers and preachers! Can you afford to risk your boy with that instructor who gets drunk when he pleases? If you think he will not influence your boy, you are certainly mistaken. Children do not hear much we say when our actions drown our words. What is the great inspiration in the christian world today? Is it the words of Christ or is it that noble life he lived? Any teacher's life lives longer in the lives of his pupils than do his words.

If we want good children we must live the right kind of lives before them, and give our neighbors the benefit of our influence, and vice versa. We are all a bunch of cowards! We will stand around with long faces on and countenance vice and drunkenness for fear our protest will not suit some devil-missionary, or knocks us out of a penny, or causes us too lose a vote, while our boys are headed straight for hell—some of them with their seven league boots on God pity such timid creatures as we are! May the time hurriedly come when we will have the courage of our convictions, and stand up for the right regardless of consequences.

Sacred to the memory of
NORMAN EARL CARTER,
who departed this life November 22, 1912,
the beloved son of T. H. and Eliza Carter.
Age 3 years, 4 months, 7 days.

THE CALL.
BY S. J. ROSIN.

I heard a voice from heaven calling
"Come unto me sweet child;"
I listened and I heard again,
In accents soft and mild.
It was the Savior's tender call,
Telling your child to come,
And then He saw it wise and best,
To take your little one.
The call was brief, and must he go
And live with Christ above;
Full well we know he is at rest,
In heaven where all is love.
Yet it is hard to give him up,
Your own, your precious child;
And cover up that lovely face,
That always was so mild.
And hide away from mortal view,
Those soft and loving eyes;
That now are closed in death's repose
Beneath the azure sky.
And never hear sweet Earl's voice?
Oh never hear it more!
That when you meditate and think,
Your hearts are troubled sore.
Those little hands he clung out to you,
So soft in childish grace;
He still to day—they never will
Again reach out to thee.
And those little feet so soft were heard,
Pattering to and fro;
Are heard no more, they, too, are still,
Oh! can all this be so?

The prattling of that little tongue,
Is hushed in silence now!
And may you know from this time,
Make unto God a vow,
The Lord He took your little child,
He did it all for good.
Perhaps to draw your hearts to Him,
No other way you would.
I know you miss your little Earl,
You miss him in the room,
You miss him at the table,
Your home is filled with gloom,
You miss him with his playmates,
You miss him about the yard,
You miss his little tenderness,
I know it is so hard!
Remember, oh, remember,
He is in a purer clime;
The Lord He only gave him
Unto you for a time.

He is a little treasure;
Laid up for you, I think,
Oh, may you of Christ's precious love,
At once partake and drink,
You then can one day see him,
There robed in beautiful white,
You will meet to part no more,
In that land so fair and bright.

Mrs. Barbara Elam.

Mrs. Gorge Elam died at her home near Ezel the 15th inst. of a complication of diseases. She is survived by her husband and several children and grand children. She was an estimable christian lady and her death will be a severe loss to the community in which she lived.

William Lewis.

William Lewis "Rebel Bill" died at his home near Elamton Friday the 17th of senile debility. He was about 83 years old and had been very feeble for several months. "Rebel Bill," as he was familiarly known, served throughout the Civil War as a soldier of the "lost cause." He was ex-assessor of Morgan county and was a widely known and respected citizen.

Mrs. Berthana Caskey.

Mrs. Berthana Caskey, wife of R. L. Caskey, died at her home near Lenox the 19th of blood poisoning. She leaves a husband and several children to mourn her loss. Mrs. Caskey was an industrious hardworking woman, a good neighbor and will be sadly missed by a large circle of relatives and friends.

Example in Enterprise.

Away down in Carlisle county, in the extreme western part of the State, a hardware firm in the good village of Bardwell, takes space in the local paper to announce that it has issued a catalogue. The public also is informed that the firm is making prices lower than the mail order houses in the big cities and is preparing to supply its customers by parcels post with anything in its line that is available.

This is an example of enterprise that is worthy of emulation by country merchants. The big mail-order houses will not take any great amount of business away from a firm which manifests so much interest in the extension of its trade. One reason why many of the rural stores are suffering from mail-order competition is because their proprietors are too hopelessly behind the times to recognize the advantage of using up-to-date methods in holding onto their old customers and in getting new ones.

The wide awake merchant is the man who lets the community know what he has to sell, who uses newspaper space judiciously and consistently, and who devotes thought to ways and means of building up his business at home, and who is not disturbed by competitors either at home or abroad. This applies to the country dealer as well as to the city merchant, for the man who does not make some intelligent effort to keep his business going forward will inevitably find it going backward.—Courier-Journal.

Woodford Dick, of Lexington, representing the School Methods Publishing Co., of Chicago, is here this week trying to interest Morgan county teachers in his books. Mr. Dick speaks in glowing terms of the work being done by the Normal Department of the West Liberty High School. He says that interest in higher education is being awakened throughout Eastern Kentucky, and that Normal schools are springing up everywhere.

Mr. Dick was here nearly two years ago and made many friends who are glad to welcome him back to our town.

BUSINESS UNDISTURBED.

The country is showing the utmost confidence in the ability and judgment of the democrats in revising the tariff downward in accordance with the democratic pledges and the usual business check occasioned by tariff legislation has not been noticed this year and it does not seem that there will be the slightest check to our present prosperity by reason of the democratic tariff bill. On the other hand industries are showing unusual activity in all lines, and when the bill becomes a law all business will be helped.

SHOW THE RASCALS UP.

The following letter was mailed to H. Nelson Girdlestone, who represented himself to be an advertising agent and defrauded a number of newspapers out of their advertising space. The Courier proposes to adopt this method of showing up dead heats, be they at home or abroad. When a firm or an individual intentionally defrauds a newspaper, the management of that paper is not courageous if it does not expose the scoundrels.

H. Nelson Girdlestone, General advertising Pensacola, Fla., Yes, that sounds father "big," does it not? Well, Mr. Gird, how would you like for the Courier's thousands of readers to have an opportunity to see that "purty" name of yours, together with its high sounding handle, in print one of these good days? Well, since you refused to pay me that bill for advertising "Moles off,"—what ever that may be—for the Florida Distributing Company, according to your contract, I am going to publish this letter in the Courier, verbatim, in order that my readers may know who you are and what you are doing for a livelihood and incidentally to let them know what I think of you and your business methods. What do I think of you, eh? Why yes: I think you are a dishonest, unscrupulous person, engaged in the business of defrauding honest publishers out of advertising space. I will not only publish this letter but I will send a marked copy of the paper containing it to every newspaper in Eastern Kentucky. By so doing I may be the means of preventing some unsuspecting publisher from being victimized by you as I have been.

Yours truly,

JUDGE BENTON'S COURAGE.

In these days of lax enforcement of the law it is gratifying to read of the courageous action of Judge J. M. Benton, of the Clark Circuit Court, in the trial of the alleged assassins of Ed Callahan. After two trials were had and the jury in each case failing to agree, Judge Benton refused to let the other trials proceed until an investigation of the charge that the alibis of the defendants were a perjured "frame-up" was investigated. We quote, in part, Judge Benton's announcement from the bench:

"Two cases have been tried here and I have heard the testimony three times, in the motion for bail, the trial of D. F. Deaton and the present trial. The expense to the State has been enormous, something like $6,000 so far, and it would be a useless expenditure to take up another one of these trials under the present situation.

"I am not prepared to say whether I myself could have reached a verdict in this case or not as the evidence on both sides was presented.

"There have been charges and counter charges of perjury in this case. I don't know whether they are true or not, but if you should come to the conclusion that the testimony was perjured, you can not inflict punishment the law fixes for perjury, and it would be a useless expenditure of money to try another of these cases until that question is first determined as to whether or not perjury has been committed.

"The grand jury of Clark county will be in session for three weeks, and will investigate any such charges brought before it. I believe that if perjury has been committed, as charged, a proper and diligent effort by persons interested on either side will enable the grand jury to get at the facts and return such indictments as are justified.

"This does not mean that the grand jury doors are to be thrown open to all comers, but the parties who feel that they have evidence of reputable witnesses that would warrant an indictment must submit the same to the Commonwealth's Attorney and the County Attorney of this county. If such indictments are returned, they will be tried in this county by a Clark county jury. I will try these cases first, before any of the pending murder cases are taken up. This is an unusual procedure, but it is an unusual situation.

"It has been suggested that an organized body is in existence in the town of Jackson the purpose of which is to establish alibis for persons who are charged with crime, whose members answer the beck and call of any member who may be in trouble. I do not know whether such an organization exists or not, but it does exist the good people of Jackson and Breathitt county have an opportunity to have the matter investigated by the grand jury of this county at the present term. I have discussed these cases with the Commonwealth's Attorney and he approves of my course in continuing the murder cases for the above reasons.

"There is another matter about which I have not consulted the Commonwealth's Attorney or anyone else. The course I am going to pursue may be considered harsh, but the situation demands harsh treatment. The two trials here have largely turned upon the question as to whether or not Jack Smith and Andrew Johnson were in Jackson on the day Ed Callahan was killed. Many witnesses were introduced to prove that they were in Jackson on that day and could not have done the shooting. It developed that nearly all of the witnesses first told Govan Smith, one of the defendants, and later Mr. A. H. Patton. I do not think a full and free investigation can be made with Govan Smith at large, and I therefore, hereby, set aside the order granting him bail and remand him to jail without bail.

"If such an organization as this exists it is much more important to the people of Breathitt county to break it up than to convict any one, two or three men for the killing of Ed Callahan.

"If Andrew Johnson and Dock Smith were in Jackson on May 4, 1912, the Commonwealth is on the wrong trail and no indictments should have been returned. If they were not in Jackson, and some twelve or fifteen witnesses have sworn to what is not true, then while some may have been honestly mistaken, the others would be perjurers.

"If Dock Smith and Andrew Johnson are guilty of the murder of Ed Callahan—and I do not mean to pass upon the question of their guilt or innocence—there is testimony in this trial indicating that Fletcher Deaton is as guilty as they are. Therefore, pending the investigation of the charges and counter-charges of perjury by the Clark county grand jury, I set aside the order granting bail to Fletcher Deaton and remand him to jail without bail."

It required a high order of moral courage to do that. Must precedents so hedges in our courts that it is a rare soul that will strike out an original line to obtain the truth in criminal actions. But conditions in Breathitt are so deplorable and human life held so cheap that nothing short of the most drastic action will bring respect for law in that county. It is said that, though local opinion in name, Jackson's and Breathitt county's "tiger" men vend liquor almost as openly as though license prevailed. A condition like that could not prevail unless a great number of men were willing to perjure themselves, or the officers of the law are criminally refraining from enforcing the law. Coincident with the operation of the "blind tiger" springs up a class who will swear falsely to shield the vendors of whisky, and from perjury to save the liquor seller it is an easy step to perjury to shield the perpetrators of graver crimes. It is a stupendous task Judge Benton, has assumed, but we hope he will succeed, and we assure him that his course has the commendation of all good citizens.

There are hundreds of good men in Breathitt who deplore the conditions there, but, seemingly, they are powerless to remedy matters. Against the alleged organized lawbreakers they are powerless. Officers seem unwilling or unable to enforce the law. Such conditions would not be allowed in the judicial districts of Judge Benton, Judge Hannah, and many other circuit judges of the State.

The cases transferred to Winchester seem to confirm the allegation that the criminal practice of law in Breathitt has reached a low standard, and to arrive at the truth will require still further drastic action.

We understand that the defendants made affidavits in forma pauperis and that the State has borne the expense of the defendants' witnesses. If this matter is within the discretion of the Court it might simplify matters if the granting it be guardedly limited, or denied entirely.

It is a startlingly significant fact that many of the defense witnesses in these trials have been defense witnesses in most of the Breathitt murder trials recently in the Robinson trial, transferred to Morgan not long since, the same witnesses, or many of them, were here for Robinson, but the jury gave him a life sentence.

All honor to Judge Benton and here's hoping that he will sift the alleged conspiracy of perjury to the bottom and arrive at the truth. The job is one from which the bravest might shrink.

TARIFF HEARINGS.

Tariff hearings are now rapidly progressing before the Ways and Means Committee. Hon. Oscar W. Underwood, of Ala., chairman of this committee announces that the hearings will terminate on Jan. 31, and then the committee will settle down to prepare the bill which will be presented to Congress on the assembling of the extra session which it is understood will be called by President Wilson probably about the middle of March.

Newspaper men regardless of political affiliation will welcome the announcement that the democrats contemplate a substantial reduction of the tariff on wood pulp and print paper.

Postoffice Primaries.

Notwithstanding the fact that the House failed to get through the "rider" to the post office appropriation bill rescinding Taft's order placing fourth-class offices under civil service, it is not to be believed for a moment that a democratic administration will allow the boys who lined up at the polls and made victory sure to stand and hungrily watch the "yanks" hold the postoffices. If Woody don't turn the rascals out and give us their places we'll go on the damndest political strike the country has ever witnessed. Why, here in West Liberty we have as many applicants for the place as there are separate and distinct authors of the poem, "Beautiful Snow," and if the powers that will be after March 4 think we are going to let a republican hold it without "rising gehenna" they are badly fooled. We'll jine Cox McGuire's bull moosers first. On the dead, I have the place "cinched," but the other boys don't know it, and if we are double-crossed by the new administration we will at least be thoroughly united in the howl we put up.

When I get the office I am going to locate it in the central part of town, have a nice room with convenient furnishing, lock boxes for all who desire them, and will recognize the fact that the post office is for the convenience of the public and not the postmaster. Several innovations will be introduced. One side of the lobby will be one large mirror, and the candy girl be attentive and polite. If I can decide in my own mind which of the several score of our pretty girls is the sweetest and the prettiest I am going to put her in charge. Now you fellows beat me in the primary, if you can!

For just as I had sneaked one over the boys and had the appointment nailed down, Ollie James and the other dispensers of patronage have decided to duck the wrath that would result from deciding between us. At any rate, it has been practically decided that the Kentucky postmaster's office will be decided by local primaries, and I guess that that is about right. When a fellow gets appointed postmaster, often over the protest of a majority of those directly interested, he gets "chesty" thinks that the office belongs to him and that the public may go to h—l. But if he feels that he owes his position to the good will and confidence of his neighbors he will feel like being courteous and attentive in the performance of his duties. So the primary is all to the good. If the women vote I'm betting I win.

Of course I will not raise such a big howl if I don't get the postoffice, but all of us will howl if some democrat don't get it. Darn a rule that requires "cause" to turn a republican out of post-office! Aint the fact that they are republicans cause enough to have 'em fired? Especially when we licked 'em so bad—and have been standing off 16 years long—just at the pie counter. Why, we got so hungry we just had to lick 'em, and if we don't get to turn 'em out we'll be so hell-fired mad we won't know what to do.

"And, moreover, I believe that Beekham should be nominated for United States Senator."

A Nervous Woman Finds Relief After Many Years

Women who suffer from extreme nervousness, often endure much suffering before finding any relief. Mrs. Daniel Kintner, of Defiance, O., had such an experience, regarding which she says:

MRS. DAN KINTNER, 1002 Pleasant St., Defiance, O.

"I had stomach trouble when I was eighteen years old that broke down my health, and for years I suffered with nervousness, headache, indigestion and nervous spasms. The spasms got so bad I would have them three or four times a week. After trying nearly every remedy recommended, I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and I must say it helped me wonderfully. I have had no more nervousness for several years."

Many remedies are recommended for diseases of the nervous system that fail to produce results because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. Dr. Miles' Nerve has proven its value in such cases so many times that it is unnecessary to make claims for it. You can prove its merits for yourself by getting a bottle of your druggist, who will return the price if you receive no benefit.

Advertising Talks

ADVERTISING ON TOMBSTONES

Tributes Paid to the Departed for Purposes of Gain for the Living.

There are some people who try to make money out of anything, as the inscriptions on some tombstones bear witness, says London Tit-Bits. Although tombstone epitaphs are frequently censored by the authorities, a good many have been passed that are more in the nature of puff for the living than tributes to the dead.

The widow of a man who died some years ago arranged for the following inscription to be placed over the grave of her husband:

"Here lies —, dear departed husband of —, who now carries on his business of general outfit, and always gives good value. Terms cash."

That is tombstone advertising with a vengeance, and it is not an isolated case. It has been recorded of a certain shop keeper that he had his grave dug and the tombstone placed above it some years before his death. The tombstone was nothing less than an advertisement of his business, for the inscription ran: "Here lies John Emerson, the best baker in the state of Ohio." The tombstone, after raising some discussion, was eventually passed by the authorities.

A Canadian firm went one better even than this. The head of the firm in question died, and over his grave was inscribed on the tombstone: "Here lies Abraham Stokes, founder of the firm of Stokes & Company, who for many years have manufactured pickles and bottled fruits. Best of all and without rival."

The tombstone censors sometimes refuse permission for epitaphs of this description to be raised over the graves of the dead. The widow of a well known patent medicine manufacturer, who wished to erect a tombstone bearing a detailed account of her late husband's discovery of the patent medicine in question, found that the authorities were obdurate in not allowing the inscription to appear. Finally she abandoned the idea of advertising the business and erected a more suitable memorial in which no mention was made of the commercial life of the dear departed.

WANTS SERVICE FOR MONEY

Who Pays Advertising Bills No Longer Fooled by Gross Figures on Circulation.

Advertisers who have so long submitted to being bilked and humbugged by the magazines are beginning to learn wisdom. In the months of June, 1912, nine magazines lost an aggregate of 22,735 lines, as compared with the same month in 1911. The loss in June 1911, followed a great loss in the same month in 1910, and there is reason to hope that by 1915 a good many of these fake publications will be put entirely out of business. The magazine of the present day is seldom read by intelligent people. It makes its appeal to the mediocre man—and even he is getting tired of it. There is just cheap literature enough in it to enable it to squirrel through the mail, the object being to hold up a lullaby advertisement public at a minimum of expense.

The more alert advertisers are beginning to discriminate, and are not being fooled so much by gross figures of circulation, but are asking about the quality of circulation as well, and quality includes accessibility of readers to the advertiser or seller, and distribution in territory or territories that provide a good market for the advertiser's wares, under the circumstances then controlling his business. The advertising agent, the one placing the advertising, has been under temptation to select gross circulation as offering the least labor and investigation on his part; but the man behind the gun, who pays the bills, is beginning to exact from his representative, who spends his money, real service for the pay he receives.

Merchant Must Help Advertising. Newspaper advertising is a preliminary to the kind of advertising that is done after you get the people who respond inside your place of business. It is a very necessary and very valuable preliminary. Without it the number of people who come to your place of business would be very much less.

But you have got to help if you want to get one hundred per cent. results from your advertising. You have got to give the public just what your advertising leads the public to expect.

P. T. Barnum, so I am told, never made that famous statement which has been attributed to him: "The public loves to be humbugged." Barnum was too shrewd a student of human nature to think or practice anything like that.

The public loves to be served—that's what. And the merchant who serves his public honestly and well is doing the kind of advertising that leads to more business.—Jerome F. Fleischman in the Baltimore Sun.

TAKE NATURALLY TO WATER

All Animals Except Man Able to Swim Without Any Laborious Teaching.

Nearly all animals are better swimmers than men and take to the water naturally, while he has to learn to propel himself. The rhinoceros and hippopotamus are wonderful swimmers and divers, while the Indian elephant crosses great rivers with heavy loads. The elk and the reindeer are first class swimmers. The elk keeps his head above water and crosses directly from bank to bank to avoid turning. The reindeer, on the other hand, turns as often as he likes, keeping his head only a little above the surface. But of all swimmers of all climates the best, though not the swiftest, is the polar bear, who passes half his time in the water swimming and diving. His swimming power is nothing short of miraculous if it be remembered that the water in the regions he frequents is invariably cold and that cold is normally prohibitive to good swimming. There are bears that can swim from forty to fifty kilometers without great effort.

One of the swiftest swimming animals is the squirrel. A sportsman on one occasion having at hand a squirrel horn in captivity, which had never seen water, wanted to see if it could swim, and took it with him in a rowboat to the center of a lake. The squirrel turned toward the bank, head and paws above the water, back and tail underneath it, and began to swim so rapidly that it was with the greatest difficulty that the man recovered it when it neared the shallow water near the land. It is said that even many nonaquatic birds will swim like ducks if an attempt be made to drown them.—Harper's Weekly.

MADE ALL THE DIFFERENCE

Wife's Gentle and Refining Influence Counted, Or Was the Gallant Colonel Afraid?

A soldier, being photographed, happened to mention the name of the regiment to which he belonged, whereupon the photographer said that he had photographed the colonel of the same regiment, and showed the private a copy.

"Well," said the soldier, "I've seen Col. — a good many times on the parade grounds, to say nothing of South Africa, and he never looked like that."

"Yes," said the photographer, "but you must remember that the colonel was neither on the parade ground nor in South Africa when he was photographed."

"Well, but I've seen him alone, and he always looks as if he were going to jump down your throat. In this you'd think he couldn't say 'bo' to a goose. Was he alone when he came here?"

"Well, no," said the photographer, with unconscious irony, "he had his wife with him."

"Oh," said the soldier, thoughtfully, "that accounts for it."—Tit-Bits.

Precaution Led to Disaster.

A marine disaster of curious origin is recorded by a recent British Board of Trade report. Some months ago the steamship Hardy had in its cargo a large quantity of metallic sodium and chloride of potash—the former, as is well known, taking fire and burning in water, while the latter is so energetic an oxidizer that it is liable to explode violently when heated in the presence of combustible matter. As an extra precaution against trouble these dangerous substances were carried on deck. This proved an unfortunate mistake, however, for a heavy sea burst open the chests containing two tons of sodium, which in a few minutes set fire to the vessel in many places. As the flames reached the elaborate of potash, a violent explosion broke the ship in two, finishing the destruction. The misdirected efforts to ensure safety were blamed for the loss, and it was concluded that the cargo would have been quite safe if the sodium had been properly packed and stowed below deck.

Good Prospects for Panama.

As an example of a money-making enterprise the Suez canal is hard to beat. The company is restrained by its charter from making more than a certain percentage of profit, and one of the principal worries of the management is to dispose of its surplus cash. With the best will in the world only so much can be spent in maintenance and improvements and reduced rates generally mean an increased income.

That is what has happened now. By the report read at the annual meeting held in Paris the other day it was shown that the company's revenues during the year which the report covered aggregated $27,762,000, an increase over the preceding year of $386,000, and so to meet the emergency thus presented another reduction of rates was ordered. In this instance the advance was the more notable because political troubles had interfered with the Chinese trade.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Road Accidents in Great Britain.

A marked increase in the number of road accidents is noted in the United Kingdom. The total rose from 28,023 in 1909 to 35,210 in 1911, of which motor vehicles caused 20,226. Statistics for the London metropolitan area show that every one hundred motor cars killed five times as many persons and injured three times as many as every one hundred horse-drawn cars.

STRAW VOTE

Who is Your Choice for the Various County Offices?

Believing that the COURIER subscription list contains most of the representative, thoughtful and progressive citizens of Morgan county, and further believing that the weight of their opinion will have much to do in determining who will be the nominees of the primary of next August, the COURIER has decided to conduct a "Straw Election" to obtain the consensus of opinion of our subscribers as to whom should be nominated.

The COURIER has no choice between the aspirants for county nominations. It will be absolutely neutral in these races, treating each with absolute fairness. But in common with all good citizens it hopes that the best men will be selected for all the offices.

RULES OF VOTING.

1. The "Straw Election" will be completed July 5, 1913, at which time all the ballots will be counted, and the result published the following week.
2. Any paid-in-advance yearly subscriber, residing in Morgan county, may cast one ballot for each of the offices to be contended for at the next August primary.
3. Only one vote will be allowed to each subscriber for each yearly subscription, and no ballot will be counted unless signed by the subscriber; but the signature will be detached by us before putting in the ballot box, and in no event will the name of the person voting or for whom he voted be divulged. It is strictly a secret ballot.
4. Only subscribers living in Morgan county may vote but the paper may be sent to any person anywhere.
5. Ballots may be sent in at any time, and as soon as a sufficient number have been received the status of the vote will be published and each week thereafter the number of votes cast for each candidate will be published.

HUNTER TELLS "TRUE" STORY

Full and Particular Account of an Affair in Which He and a Bear Figured.

"I had proceeded in this way a few steps, when suddenly I saw, about eight feet away on the curving border of the spruces, running directly at me what appeared to be a large bear. I had just time to push forward the butt of my rifle and yell, when the bear collided with me, knocking me down. It seemed to turn slightly to the left as I pushed my rifle into it, and I clearly recall its shoulder striking my left hip, its head striking just above my left knee, while its claws struck my shin so that it is now black and blue. I had the sensation of one about to be mauled and mutilated. As I fell to the right, my rifle dropped, and in my confusion, I grabbed with my left hand the animal's fur, while I remember having a quick, foolish thought of the small knife in my pocket.

"The bear was, I believe, more surprised than I. I felt its fur slip through my hand, as it quickly turned to its right, and swinging about, ran back over the hill without any attempt to bite or strike me. Rising, as the bear wheeled, I picked up my rifle and shot at the animal was disappearing. The bullet struck it, evidently high in the back. Immediately I took up its trail, followed it down into the woods and on the flats for over an hour, and at last lost the impressions on hard ground. Its tracks showed that it had kept running for more than a mile, and then settled down to a walk on the timbered ridges, continuing to a flat country below. For the first mile I saw, at intervals, considerable blood on the leaves of brush and trunks of trees about three feet up from the ground, but afterward saw no more.

"Who will believe this remarkable incident? Certainly if another had related it to me, I might have thought it some mistake owing to excitement.

"Twice I have had the good luck to see the action of a bear when it crossed unexpectedly the fresh trail of a man—once in Mexico, and again last summer on the MacMillan river, when a bear crossed Skous' trail. In both cases the bear jumped in great fright and ran at full speed."—Charles Sheldon, in Scribner's Magazine.

NERVE OF NEW YORK WOMAN

Remarkable Display of "Cheek" by Mistress of Doggie Who Was Getting an Outing.

"I think there is a particular brand of 'cheek,' otherwise known as 'nerve,' among the women of New York, writes an observer. It's the calmest, coolest kind, almost unbelievable. It's so egotistic, and so stupid that it's amusing. Here's an instance, and I assure you it's no fairy tale. I was in a big house furnishing establishment, and in came a woman with a little dog. She said she didn't know just what she wanted, but she'd like to go through the shop. They said all right, and a clerk took her round. I followed along. The woman priced a few things, looked casually at others and finally made ready to leave.

"I like your shop very much," she said, "and I'll come again. It's an outing for doggie. Good-by!"

"An outing for doggie!" gasped the clerk, starting to follow her.

"Yes, he's been smelling the varnish. He simply loves varnish. I'll bring him again. Good-by!"

Should she be in jail or in a lunatic asylum?

Homesick Immigrants.

In the steering office of a European steamship line sat sad-eyed men and women of the sterner type.

"America too swift for 'em, eh?" said a brisk American passing through. "Going back home, eh?"

"Nothing of the kind," said a clerk. "The poor devils haven't been here long enough to find out whether they will be a failure or not. Just at present they are knocked out by homesickness. That is why they are here.

"The individuals comprising this particular group came over alone. They have no friends here and the loneliness has floored them. A visit to the office of the steamship line that brought them over is about the best brace they can find.

They can at least see the people the ship they came in, and strike up a conversation with the who is buying a ticket to go for several weeks until the day of their homesickness has

Headache

Is one of the common symptoms of womanly trouble, and the cause has to be removed before you can rid yourself of it entirely. A medicine that merely kills pain, does not go to the seat of the trouble, and kill the cause. What you need is a woman's medicine—one which acts directly, yet gently, on the womanly organs.

Cardui

The Woman's Tonic

After having used Cardui, Miss Lillie Gibson, of Chiseman, Texas, writes: "About three years ago, I was just entering womanhood, and was sick in bed for nearly nine months. Sometimes I would have such headaches, and other aches, I could hardly stand it. I tried Cardui, and now I am cured of all my troubles. I shall praise Cardui as long as I live." Cardui is the medicine you need. Try it. E-69

Distribution of Farm Labor.

One way to make money on the farm is to save it by so distributing the labor throughout the year that the minimum of hiring may be done and the farm owner may always be busy. The winter season is often the leisure time of the farmer. Here are some ways in which he can profitably employ his time.

The winter months afford opportunity for overhauling and repairing all farm machinery. During the cultivating, sowing and harvesting seasons whenever it is noticed that any part of a machine is needing repair, note should be made of the defect; then in winter the farmer should have a comfortable room where all such parts can be made good. A thorough cleaning of the bearings and gears of any machine reduces friction, saves wear, and often discloses worn out parts. If all farm machinery is carefully looked after in this way during the slack season, much annoyance and money will be saved the following summer.

All practical and up-to-date farmers will look after the selection, and germination tests of seeds, which are to be planted next summer, during the winter months. He who sends early to his seedsmen for samples of seeds, selects those free from weed seeds and of high germinating power, and buys early, will often be rewarded by greatly increasing yields. Help and information concerning selection and germination tests of seeds will be gladly furnished by the Kentucky Experiment Station, upon application.

Every farmer should have stock to care for during the winter months. Live stock can be so managed that the largest amount of work connected with it will come in winter. The feeding and care of the dairy herd will be heaviest in winter. Early lambs will make a busy time during the latter part of winter. The proper housing of stock during the cold and stormy months will add to the work of feeding as well as to the quantity of manure, which should be hauled upon the land practically as fast as made. All of these things help to make a profitable and busy winter season.

The winter evenings furnish a good time for laying out the future plans for the farm, and for the architectural study of any farm buildings that are to be constructed or remodeled. Locating new buildings, laying out new fences to be built, working out rotation of crops, planning tile drains, studying labor-saving devices for the housewife as well as for oneself, are interesting and valuable problems for the long evenings of winter.

The farmer, of all business men, is the man who is most careless about keeping account of his business. No merchant who does not keep records would expect to succeed, neither should the farmer. Now is the time to take an inventory of the farm stock and open up accounts for the New Year. If the farmer cannot do this, he should hand the problem to his sixteen year son or daughter. At the close of another year it should be known exactly what crops and what lot of stock have furnished profits.—H. B. HENDRICK, Asst. Agronomist, Kentucky Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.

Mrs. Mollie McGuire has been confined to her room with la grippe for the last few days.

Mrs. Lila Henry, of Honny, Lillian Dennis and Leslie Carr spent the day with Anna Sample Sunday and all had a lovely time.

Little Ruth Davis is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Carter, of Grassy Creek, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Smith Nickell Saturday and Sunday.

GRASSY CREEK.

We are having rain, mud and water in abundance just now.

A revival meeting at Grassy Lick has just closed. It began Christmas day, and continued to days. It was attended with large crowds day and night, unless hindered by rain, or high waters. There were several conversions and a great many renewed. It was a glorious revival. It is to be hoped that much good will yet result from the seed sown, and the earnest prayers during the meeting. There are four awaiting baptism.

J. B. Anyx, of Grassy, is seriously ill. He has a malignant attack of pneumonia, and not expected to live.

Billy Carter and Barney Collinsworth, are gone to Indiana to look for a job.

Jas. L. Carter and family have gone to Bradley, Ill., to make their future home.

The wife of Elder John L. Ferguson is said to be in a critical condition. Not expected to live.

W. M. Henry and wife, of Nannie are visiting their son, J. D. Henry, of Grassy Creek.

J. F. Stamper who has been confined to his room for some days is able to be out again.

Clint Ferguson and Miss Nora Stamper of Grassy Creek, were quietly married at the bride's home on the 5th inst. Elder C. F. Walter officiating.

FAIR PLAY.

MAY TOWN.

Roy Rowland, of this place, and Miss Elam of War Creek, were quietly married at the home of the bride's father, J. F. Elam the 14th inst. Rev. A. Rowland officiating.

Gordon Cottle, of Forest, was here this week on business.

Mrs. Josie Murphy, who has had pneumonia fever, is convalescent.

Wendell and Ruby, the two little children of Vol. Nickell are on the sick list.

Mrs. Ida Sample has a severe attack of la grippe.

Several cases of whooping cough are reported in this vicinity.

Marion H. Milton is visiting relatives at Elamton.

J. M. Jones who has been down with grip is able to be out again.

Roy Nickell and J. Mannin, of Illinois who have been visiting relatives for the past month, have returned home.

Manford Elam and Roy Rowland made a business trip to Elamton the first of the week.

Deputy Sheriff, Luther Pieratt, of Ezel, was here Wednesday on official business.

Our Winter School at this place, is progressing nicely. Under the management of Prof. Lenx Swaugo.

UNCLE DICK.

DINGUS.

We inadvertently failed to mention in our last letter that the sick had left a new boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Conley, the 4th inst.

Archie Fraley, of Elliott County, and Miss Mattie Patrick, was the guests of Miss Vergie Ferguson, Saturday night.

P. L. Bolen sold his farm to P. A. and M. C. Bradley, and has bought a farm at Silvers Hill and moved to it.

Willie Fannin, of Crockett, visited relatives here Saturday night.

E. C. Williams is building a house that he expects to occupy in the near future.

The infant child of Elbert Nickell and wife, of Flores, was buried here the 6th inst.

Rev. A. L. Gillum went to Alice last Saturday and spoke words which made Walter Coldiron, of Itell, and Miss Lou McClain daughter of A. McClain, man and wife.

Jiles Deuchlimer was set apart by the Campbellite church here to be ordained as a minister of the gospel the third Saturday in February.

We are informed that there are four or five cases of smallpox in the vicinity of Abing, and that several others have been exposed. Some have recovered. It is said to last about a week, and that the attack is nothing to cause much alarm. All religious gatherings have been called off, and business traffic is somewhat abated in the affected neighborhood.

J. K. Patrick and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Williams are on the sick list.

Ruben Ison, of Moon, was here Sunday.

The bridge, crossing Williams Creek, which was ordered built at the creek crossing near the residence of Nosa Cantrell, has been built about a half mile down the creek, at the terminus of H. C. and J. Wiley Delfrey's farms. The change necessitates the building of about one mile of new road from Mr. Cantrell's to George Williams.

The old road from Mr. Cantrell's to J. W. Delfrey's will be left open for public travel, which can be used during the dry season to an advantage.
